Course Description

The Doctoral Counseling Internship experience is the final and most comprehensive professional experience in a student's counseling program. It is an opportunity to synthesize and apply knowledge with supervised training at a site congruent with the student's career goals while counseling clients representative of the ethnic, lifestyle, and demographic diversity in the community. Through the sharing of experiences in both group and individual supervision, students refine previously learned skills in an increasingly autonomous role with clients.

Methods of Instruction

Experiential learning, discussion, reading, supervision

Course Objectives

The six credit, two semester Doctoral Internship is designed to provide the student with an opportunity to practice and expand his/her counseling and teaching skills. Clinical hours are required during both semesters and teaching hours are required during at least one semester. Site Supervisors monitor student activities and provide effective and appropriate feedback with direct supervision. Campus Supervisors serve as a link to the Program and a monitor of student progress through video and/or audio recording, group supervisory sessions, student logs, and possible direct supervision. Campus supervisors also supervise teaching activities.

The internship student will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to implementing and/or expanding the following skills:

- establish and maintain a client caseload;
- apply appropriate intentional counseling and intervention techniques, including consultation, demonstrating multicultural awareness, knowledge and increasing skills;
- establish and maintain effective working relationships with staff, supervisors, and colleagues;
- demonstrate willingness to learn with appropriate follow through to feedback;
- exhibit continued awareness of ethical standards of practice within a defined and consistent decision-making paradigm;
- develop the specialized knowledge and techniques relevant to the requirements of the host site;
- demonstrate ability to explore and use community resources for referrals;
- consistently exhibit personal traits conducive to effective counseling, learning, and professional growth;

Suggestions for Getting the Most from the Course

1. Read the contents of this syllabus. Ask necessary questions the first part of class, rather than later.
2. You are responsible for maintaining weekly and summary logs of activities and contact hours. You are also responsible for notifying your Site Supervisor of dates for evaluations and providing him or her with the necessary forms in a timely manner.
3. Each Group Supervision meeting has an agenda. Time is set aside to process site problems or professional issues that are beneficial to air in a group setting. Please arrange campus supervisor consultation as needed. Your campus supervisor can usually arrange to get to your site if warranted. Your first line of resource is the Site Supervisor of course, but the key to a positive field experience is communication and early response.

Campus Coordinators and Site Supervisors expect to review student progress regularly, and you may expect prompt feedback of any concerns along with avenues by which you address those concerns.
